The WPHF Global Learning Hub
Enhancing Capacities and Dialogue. Driving Innovation.

The Women’s Peace and Humanitarian Fund (WPHF) is a global partnership mobilizing critical financing for local women-led and women’s rights organizations to prevent conflict and sexual and gender-based violence, respond to emergencies, and seize key peacebuilding opportunities in fragile settings. Since its launch in 2016, WPHF has established itself as a highly relevant and credible multi-partner trust fund, channeling urgently needed support to over 900 local civil society organizations (CSOs) working on women, peace and security and humanitarian action (WPS-HA) in 32 countries around the world.

In fulfillment of its mandate to serve as a global knowledge center for local CSOs working on the front lines of conflict and crises, the WPHF Secretariat has established a Global Learning Hub (L-HUB) to connect WPHF civil society partners, reinforce their capacities and support their growth and resilience. The L-HUB is an innovative space facilitating dialogue and exchange of best practices between women peacebuilders and humanitarians through online and in-person activities.

Since 2020, the L-HUB offers training, knowledge exchange, and mentoring opportunities to a wide pool of women leaders and CSOs, through leveraging partnerships with I/NGOs, private sector actors, governments, and the academia. The L-HUB develops initiatives to support long term peer learning between CSOs, and a mentorship scheme in support of CSOs working with displaced women and girls. Through capacity building and peer exchange webinars, the L-HUB has strengthened the institutional development of over 1772 civil society leaders since 2020 from 321 unique CSOs from 34 countries.

The topics prioritized by the CSO and other organizations), such as compliance with WPHF global capacity building modules and resources are purposefully designed to enhance the institutional capacity of local CSOs working in crises-affected contexts, with particular emphasis on the pillars of accessibility, CSO ownership, information exchange and non-duplication of efforts at country level. With the intent to help local CSO partners become stronger organizations and sustain their efforts, WPHF global capacity building modules and resources are purposefully designed to support the survival of local women’s organizations in the long-term, and do not aim to focus on improving organizations’ compliance with WPHF and other UN administrative processes.

The Capacity Building Programme is structured around various learning modules articulating a range of topics designed to enhance the institutional capacity of local CSOs working in crises-affected contexts, such as results-based management, data collection, communications, technology, risk management, and resource mobilization. Through mobilizing external partners and experts (CSOs and INGOs, UN entities and other organizations), WPHF offers online training webinars in Arabic, English, French, and Spanish, on the topics prioritized by the CSO representatives.

In addition, the Peer Exchange Series spotlight the expertise and experiences of WPHF civil society partners. These exchange opportunities are enhancing the visibility of WPHF-supported projects as well as the research findings and advocacy work led by CSOs on the ground. The Peer Exchange Series constitute 1) the Peer Exchange Sessions that feature several CSOs in online discussions to share their impact, strategies, and challenges on WPSHA related topics (child marriage, coalition building, etc.), 2) the Knowledge Cafés where a CSO presents a knowledge product resulting from their work, showcasing the diversity of research products and research practices.

To better respond to local CSOs’ needs, along with the evaluation questionnaires distributed after each webinar, WPHF annually conducts a survey among its civil society partners to collect feedback and inform the design and planning of future institutional strengthening initiatives. Through consulting with recipient organizations and involving feminist experts from different backgrounds, WPHF aims to ensure that capacity development initiatives are context specific and customized to meet the evolving needs of partners. The users’ feedback helps shaping the design and implementation of training and exchange activities and reinforcing their quality, accuracy, and relevance.

WPHF civil society partners have highlighted the added value of WPHF L-HUB training and exchange initiatives as a meaningful way to keep in close contact with fellow women peacebuilders and humanitarian activists facing similar challenges across regions. Participating in regular webinars and exchanges has provided women civil society leaders with invaluable insight and information, allowing them to coordinate for learning, collaboration, and movement building. It also helps develop solidarity among local civil society leaders and forge new synergies among them.
