TOC	If (1) civil society organizations are involved in the design, implementation and monitoring of WPS commitments and frameworks; and if these are adequately financed and monitored; then (2) implementation of WPS commitments will improve; because (3) civil society's involvement is key in ensuring accountability on WPS commitments.	If (1) women are actively participating in conflict prevention; and they are empowered to lead early warning and conflict prevention mechanisms; then (2) conflict prevention efforts will be more successful; because (3) evidence shows that women's involvement can improve both conflict prevention and response.	If (1) women's needs inform humanitarian planning and programming; and civil society organizations have the capacity and opportunity to integrate gender equality; then (2) humanitarian planning and programming will be gender inclusive and responsive, and promote women's empowerment; because (3) experience shows that explicit involvement of women in the design and implementation of humanitarian assistance facilitates meeting their needs.	If (1) women are involved as mediators and as stakeholders in conflict resolution; if gender expertise is made available, and if the capacity and influence of women to engage in the negotiation process is strengthened; then (2) peace agreements are more likely to be sustained; because (3) women's participation is proven to shift power dynamics towards peace, inclusiveness and equality.	If (1) there are mechanisms in place, informed by women's participation, to increase the physical security of women and girls; if perpetrators of SGBV are held to account; and if survivors are provided with comprehensive support; then (2) women and girls will be safer and their human rights respected; because (3) security, justice and support services reduce the likelihood of conflict-related crimes.	If (1) women participate in political processes, and benefit from peacebuilding and recovery efforts; and if these efforts and processes are gender-responsive; the (2) peace dividends will be more inclusive, security reforms will benefit all, and economic recovery and resilience will be accelerate because (3) including wom in peacebuilding processes brings broader benefits to communities
